Required Minimum Distribution (RMD)

Calculate RMD by dividing the account balance at the end of the prior year by the RMD factor for the current year. If assets are invested in a deferred annuity, the actuarial present value of additional benefits (if applicable) should be added to the contract value before dividing by the RMD factor.

Required beginning date (RBD) is generally April 1 of the year after reaching age 72 (or the year of retirement, if later, in the case of some qualified plans). Distributions are not required from a Roth IRA until after the death of the owner. The Roth owner is always treated as dying before the RBD. (For more information please refer to IRS Publication 590-B, IRAs).

Lifetime Distributions

Generally, use the Uniform Lifetime table. If the spouse is the sole designated beneficiary and more than 10 years younger, use the Joint Life and Last Survivor Expectancy table (IRS Publication 590-B).

Distributions after Death of Owner

Under the SECURE Act, there are three “categories” of beneficiaries, each with its own payout rules:

Not a Designated Beneficiary:
Participant's estate	5-year rule if participant dies before RBD, participant's remaining life expectancy if participant dies after RBD
Charity
Non-see-through trust
Designated Beneficiary:
Individual	Must withdraw benefits within 10 years of participant's death
See-through trust
“Eligible” Designated Beneficiary:
Participant's spouse	Payout over beneficiary's life expectancy
Participant's minor child
Disabled/Chronically III beneficiary
Beneficiary <10 years younger than participant
